

RCN History of Nursing Forum: Committee Charter 2026

‘Protect, Preserve, Share, Cherish, Inspire’ 2026

Forum purpose (vision):

- To engage and inspire RCN members across the UK with the history of nursing
- To support and promote general interest, research, and education in the history of nursing, midwifery, and health visiting
- To promote and develop the study of the history of nursing through discussion and debate
- To organise RCN History of Nursing events to promote the work of the forum and to disseminate research, study, and information
- To develop links with other history of nursing groups within the UK and internationally
- To protect, preserve, share, and cherish nursing’s heritage
- To ensure the diversity of nursing is embedded in our activities
- To promote the RCN historic collections through collaboration with the RCN Archive, Library and Museum teams.

There are currently over 2,733 members of the RCN History of Nursing Forum, across the UK and from all areas of RCN membership including students, retired, full members, specialist nurses, activists, nurse associates and health care practitioners.

About Us

The History of Nursing Forum is open to RCN members who want to learn more about their history and to promote awareness within the profession. We believe the history of nursing is wider than the study of nurse training and practice; it encompasses the experiences of individuals and groups, movements and organisations, religion and war, culture and gender, politics, and social ideas. It can include family history and local history where these touch on nursing.

The Forum’s regular activities include the co-creation of exhibitions and events with other RCN Forums and the Archive, Library and Museum teams; creating oral history interviews; writing articles for Wikipedia, the RCN Magazine, blogs and other resources; supporting history of nursing forum groups in the regions; providing the family and local history guide Tracing Nurses and other activities. Members interested in becoming involved should contact the Forum via HONF@rcn.org.uk

The RCN has led many developments in the history of nursing within the UK and at an international level. Our historic collections reflect this, with RCN Archive, Library and Museum holding the largest nursing collection in Europe. Our oldest material dates from the 1600s though most of our printed and archival collections date from the 1870s with the rise of nursing schools. Focusing on English language materials the collections include the most comprehensive collection of nursing books, journals, PhD theses, pamphlets, rare books, grey literature, e-books, and e-journals as well as organisational and personal archives, audio-visual materials oral histories and objects. The collections hold material from across the UK and include items belonging to iconic nursing leaders such as Florence Nightingale, RCN co-founder Sarah Swift and Trevor Clay.

The History of Nursing Forum reports to the Forums Co-ordinating Committee (FCC); this positions the work of the forum within the decision making of the RCN and provides an opportunity to highlight the contribution that the history of nursing can make to contemporary nursing research, education, and practice. It promotes collaborative working across the forums.

The RCN Head of Archive & Records Management acts as Adviser to the forum which helps bring our members and our historic collections together, providing opportunities for collaborative projects in the network of history societies that flourish across the UK.

The forum works in partnership with external bodies and groups that lead on nursing history including:

- The UK Association of History of Nursing (UKAHN) a network for nursing historians, a number of whom are not eligible for RCN membership
- The European Association of History of Nursing (EAHN), the American Association for the History of Nursing (AAHN), and other international networks for nursing historians who are not eligible for RCN membership
- The Florence Nightingale Museum which leads on a number of nursing history projects.

How we support the RCN remit

- Provide history of nursing expertise and input to the RCN
- Ensure dissemination of relevant information to the nursing history community
- Support RCN activities
- Ensure public engagement with the History of Nursing Forum.

Forum deliverables

- Hold one Committee planning day per year.
- Hold regular Committee MS Teams meetings.
- HONF Webpages – actively contribute ten blogs per year.
- Provide story ideas RCN Magazine articles to RCN Communications team each year
- Report to RCN Forums Co-ordinating Committee (FCC) via the forum Chair
- In collaboration with other forums and RCN LAS co-research and deliver exhibitions in London, Edinburgh and online.

RCN History of Nursing Forum: Committee Charter 2026

- Organise events including members' and public events, both in conjunction with RCN Museum team and independently through local member groups. These events are online, physical or hybrid as appropriate.
- Engage with Congress at minimum, ensuring a voting representative attends and is visible. Where appropriate: proposing a resolution / helping at the Meet the Forums event and on the Forum stand / co-submitting a fringe event at Congress with another Forum, feedback Congress outcomes to members
- Deliver projects: as agreed by the committee below.

Forum success metrics:

- To increase membership numbers by 3% each year and numbers attending events/activities
- To identify historical interest/activities across the UK and build local forum activity
- To develop collaborative relationships with Forums interested in specialist history of nursing topics and deliver joint projects
- Deliver activities to agreed deadlines
- To improve member experience of forum activities by building on feedback from evaluations
- To create a pool of volunteers for forum activities outside of the main committee.

Monica Baly Grant

The RCN Foundation is responsible for the Monica Baly Grant. Details can be found on their website RCN Foundation education grants. The History of Nursing Forum provides advisors to sit on the panel which reviews bursary applications and makes a recommendation to the Foundation as to each year's winner.

This is an annual award that gives financial assistance to undertake activities related to nursing history. These include undertaking courses, projects, research, and attending either a nursing history conference or study day to present a paper.

Please note the Monica Baly Grant is open to UK-registered nurses or UK-based nursing students. The closing date for applications is usually in summer each year; check their website for details. It provides a grant to fund a research project up to the value of £1,000.

Applications are encouraged to focus on the history of any aspect of nursing and are particularly welcomed in the following areas:

- Gaps in historical research, for example, BAME nurses/midwives, nurses/midwives with disabilities
- Areas of practice where the history is not as well documented, for example: prison nursing, school nursing, mental health and learning disability nursing.

The Monica Baly Grant will be opening again in 2026, dates to be confirmed.

About Monica Baly

The Monica Baly Fund was established through a gift from Dr Monica Baly's Will. Monica Baly entered nursing in the 1930s but always had a passion for history. On retirement, she combined these two interests to study the history of nursing. At the age of 70, she completed a PhD in Nursing and Social Change. Dr Baly's ongoing passion was reflected in her role as the first Chair of the RCN History of Nursing Society (our previous name).

Dr Baly established the Monica Baly Fund specifically to remove the stumbling block of lack of funds for registered nurses who might otherwise not be able to undertake history of nursing activities.
