Any feedback or initial evaluation that you would like to share with FGG:

The resource progress was hampered by the pandemic and the RCN Union focus on strike action. Professional support was often paused and difficult to obtain at times.
The authors all work in travel health practice which was severely impacted by the pandemic. Protected time to undertake this work was not allowed by employers so the work was done wholly in personal time. Although this time was given freely the work took a long time to execute and begs the question on how much nurses will be able to give this commitment in the future. .
