Attend this leading international conference as we explore the overarching theme of 'impact'. Discuss and debate the impact of research on health and social care policy and nursing practice. Hear from inspirational keynote speakers and presenters on developments in methodology as well as the latest research findings on a diverse array of nursing issues.

If you are passionate about nursing research, would like to promote your research on an international platform or gain invaluable insights to support your professional development, then this conference is aimed at you.

You will have an opportunity to:

- share and promote your research through a range of media and engage in constructive critical debate with your peers
- engage in a lively social programme with like-minded colleagues – from those starting out in their careers through to distinguished keynote speakers
- collaborate and learn through reflection with fellow participants in a friendly and supportive environment
- contribute to your continuing professional development and revalidation requirements.

This international conference is open to all nurses and researchers working in any setting.

Topical themes may include:

- Research impact - how to achieve it.
- Clinical effectiveness and nursing research.
- Methods that may enhance impact.
- Evaluating change.
- Patient experience and the role of research.
- Health and social care policy research.
- The impact of research on nurse-sensitive outcomes.

Exhibit, advertise and promote!

An unrivalled opportunity to connect with a significant group of leading UK and international nurse researchers. For further information contact the exhibitions team:
