Driving quality and integrity in scientific research and development

As a not-for-profit association we have around 2,300 members of which 44% are based outside of the United Kingdom and located in 58 countries worldwide, with many of our members working in an international environment and to international standards.

www.therqa.com

We continue to meet the needs of our members by:

- Promoting quality standards in scientific research and development
- Facilitating knowledge sharing through events, publications and networking
- Liaising with regulatory agencies in the development and interpretation of regulations and guidance
- Offering professional development opportunities
- Working in partnership/cooperation with other organisations.

Our membership caters for professionals including managers, scientists, auditors, inspectors and practitioners concerned with the quality and compliance of research and development. Our members focus on the safety and efficacy of pharmaceuticals, biologicals, medical devices, agrochemicals and chemicals in man, animals and the environment.

More information on all of our first class services and products can be viewed on our website.

Welcome

It is with great pleasure that we welcome you to the 2018 RCN International Nursing Research Conference in Birmingham. Our aim is to provide an event for sharing and discussing research that has international relevance to both nursing and wider health care provision.

Each day comprises a mix of keynote speakers, concurrent sessions, posters and symposia. Hosted 'walking tours' of the posters are featured during the lunchtimes and a number of fringe/networking events will also be held during the conference. Please participate in all the presentation formats and networking events the conference programme has to offer.

A high number of abstracts were received for this year's event, which presented challenges in terms of tight deadlines for review. We offer our thanks to the International Scientific Advisory Panel, who undertook these reviews in a timely and professional manner. We hope the outcome of these reviews and the programme planning of the RCN Research Society Scientific Committee provide you with a lively and thought-provoking programme.

The full book of abstracts can be downloaded to your device or viewed online at www.rcn.org.uk/research18

Exhibition

An exhibition will accompany this event. Please make time to visit the stands as visitor flow influences the decision to exhibit in the future.

Evaluation

Feedback about the conference is very important to us and is used to inform planning for future events. An evaluation form will be emailed to all delegates after the conference and we ask that you take time to complete this, we are grateful for your contribution.

Questions

If you have any questions during the event, please speak to RCN staff at the registration desk. Members of the RCN Research Society Steering Committee will also be available throughout the conference, please feel free to approach them to discuss the conference and/or any wider issues relating to the Society.

We look forward to hosting you in Birmingham and hope you benefit from the learning and networking opportunities this international conference affords, as well as finding time to enjoy some of the local attractions.

Ambassadors

Ambassadors are the welcoming face of the conference, a source of information and a point of contact. Their role is key to how you, as a delegate, experience the conference and your visit to Birmingham. Ambassadors particularly help international delegates orientate themselves to the local area and navigate around the conference. They are invaluable and without their behind the scenes work and efforts the conference would not be the success that it is.

If you require any help, please ask an ambassador – they are clearly visible by the purple tab on their badges.

Wednesday 18 April	8.30am – 4.30pm

Conference materials

To include delegate badge, certificate of attendance and a conference programme will be provided at registration.

Please note, delegates should download the full book of abstracts to their device if they have not already done so, or view online at www.rcn.org.uk/research18

Badges

For security reasons, delegates must wear their badges at all times in the medical school. Delegates will be challenged if they are not wearing a badge.

Programme

Please refer to the conference programme provided at registration for the times and locations of all conference sessions. Staff and ambassadors will be on hand to guide you as necessary.

All conference sessions, posters, exhibition and catering areas are located in the College of Medical and Dental Sciences, University of Birmingham.

Keynote/main hall sessions

Keynote/main hall presentations will take place in the Leonard Deacon lecture theatre (access 1st and 2nd floor).

Concurrent and symposia sessions

Places will be allocated on a first-come, first-served basis. To ensure a seat, please arrive promptly.

See the programme at a glance for room numbers.

Exhibition and posters

Exhibitors have chosen to exhibit at this conference as they feel their products and/or services may be of interest to you. The exhibition supports the conference so please make time to visit each exhibition stand during the exhibition viewing times.

The exhibition and poster display will be located in the Common Room (ground floor).

Social events

Monday 16 April

Welcome drinks 5.50-6.30pm

A welcome drinks reception for all delegates and exhibitors will be hosted by the School of Nursing, part of the College of Medical and Dental Sciences at the University of Birmingham.

Venue: Common Room, ground floor.

UK Nursing Professoriate Networking event, 7pm onwards

This networking event for UK-based and visiting international nursing professors will provide an opportunity for professors of different experience levels to meet and network.

Venue: Bacchus Bar, Burlington Arcade, New Street, Birmingham B2 4JH (Opposite Birmingham New Street station) Cash bar in operation. Leaving from the registration desk at 6.30pm.

Clinical Research Nurses Networking event, 7pm onwards

The aim of this networking event is for clinical research nurses (CRNs), and those involved or interested in CRN development and engagement with the clinical workforce to meet, network and discuss current issues relating to this area of nursing.

Venue: Please meet with us at the Shakespeare Pub, Summer Row, Birmingham, B3 1JJ (Close to New Street Station). Stay for as long or as short a time as you are able to. Leaving from the registration desk at 6.30pm.

Tuesday 17 April	8.30am – 5.15pm
Wednesday 18 April	8.30am – 1.45pm

Daily poster tours

Posters are an important medium for showcasing work. Different posters will be shown on each day of the conference.

In the poster viewing time during lunch, poster presenters will be available at their poster. Experienced Chairs will lead walking tours for small groups of delegates during the poster viewing time (see programme for specific times) and poster presenters will be invited to summarise their poster and answer questions after.

Poster tours depart promptly from the Poster tour point in the Common Room. Please make your way to the poster tour point a few minutes before the time shown in the programme (this varies slightly each day). The Chairs will be identifiable by their poster tour clipboard.

Internet café

The internet café is located in the IT Hub

Opening times:

Monday 16 April	8am – 6pm
Tuesday 17 April	8.30am – 5.30pm
Wednesday 18 April	8.30am – 4.30pm

Due to demand, delegates are asked to restrict themselves to 30 minutes maximum use of the internet café at any one time.

Internet/Wi-Fi

The venue has a free delegate Wi-Fi network for web browsing, checking emails and social media.

Guest Wi-Fi access instructions

- Connect to the network 'WiFiGuest'
- Open a browser, go to 'service.thecloud.net'
- Select 'Get online at Edgbaston campus'
- Follow on-screen instructions, either create an account or log on with existing details

Electronic devices

Out of courtesy to others, delegates are requested to switch off, or set to silent, all electronic devices during conference sessions.

Catering

All refreshments and lunches will be served in the restaurant (lower ground floor accessed from the Common Room). Evening meals are not included in the conference fees.

Cloakroom

A cloakroom will be available for use during the conference.

Continuing Professional Development

The Royal College of Nursing believes in lifelong learning and actively promotes the continuing professional development of all nurses. Authorised Royal College of Nursing certificates of attendance have been issued to all participants. This event is also subject to the RCN Events quality assurance framework. You should log what you have learnt at this event using the framework for reflection guidelines on the back of your certificate and keep this document in your personal professional portfolio.

Royal College of Nursing (RCN) membership

If you have any questions about your RCN membership or wish to learn more about becoming a member, please speak to RCN registration staff during the refreshment or lunch breaks.

For RCN members, the RCN offers a number of free online resources with all the latest information and guidance on particular nursing practice issues such as: clinical guidelines, patient safety and eHealth.

The ABPI and you

The ABPI is a voluntary code of practice for pharmaceutical companies. Its aim is to ensure the promotion of medicines is carried out in a way which supports high quality patient care. The RCN endorses the code, and supports those pharmaceutical companies who abide by it.

What the code means for you:

The event venue will be appropriate for the educational event – it will not be extravagant, so you will know that you are getting value for money.

Companies will not sponsor or organise entertainment. Definitions of the sponsorship will be declared in the relevant events materials so you are clear where funds are going.

You will be told if any consultants or speakers have relationships with pharmaceutical companies.

Promotional gifts, inducements or aids must be inexpensive and relevant – they should benefit patient care. This means that the number of 'freebies' available from exhibitors could significantly reduce.

Fringe event 1 – Room: WF19

Developing and measuring the impact of nursing research

Professor Ruth Northway, University of South Wales; Dr Rachel Taylor, University College London Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust; Dr Julie Sanders, Barts Health NHS Trust, United Kingdom

The RCN Forum Governance Group (FGG) has funded a collaborative project between the RCN Research Society and University of Sheffield Strategic Alliance project to explore developing and measuring the impact of nursing research. The aim of the project is to develop a tool kit that will assist nurses with determining the impact of nursing research. Following a 1-day workshop with representatives of RCN professional forums and key stakeholders, we will present, and consult more widely with conference delegates on the outcomes from the workshop to contribute to the following planned outputs:

- guidelines to assist nurses for planning for impact from nursing research
- a tool to capture and demonstrate the impact of nursing research

It is proposed that these will both assist with promoting better knowledge exchange within nursing and raise the profile of nursing research within health, research and wider care settings.

Fringe event 2 – Room: WF15

Widening the possibilities for research dissemination

Dr Caroline Shuldham, RCNi Editorial Advisory Board, United Kingdom

A key part of research is to disseminate findings, inform other nurses and influence practice and future research. Conventionally this has largely been achieved through publication and presentation at conferences.

However technology is changing the way in which findings can be presented and researchers are increasingly using films/videos and other material to supplement peer review papers.

The aim of this event is to orientate researchers to the various ways in which they can publicise their results and meet a wide audience of practicing nurses. RCNi has developed a digital programme to meet modern requirements. As the use of digital resources grows and the appetite for printed material reduces it is important to understand the shifting nature of users' requirements to ensure material meets their needs (McShea 2017).

The programme combines on-line clinical articles, learning modules, a decision support tool, based on best evidence, and hosted content from other organisations. More video and podcast interviews with researchers, posted on-line, could help bring research alive for the reader.

Using modern technologies, materials are available through mobile devices, accessible anywhere including at the point of care. The programme will be discussed and provides an additional vehicle for researchers to disseminate their research.

Fringe event 3 – Room: Forum Lecture Theatre

Nursing research priorities for the RCN

*Dr Tony Ryan,
Professor Angela Tod,
School of Nursing and Midwifery, University of Sheffield, United Kingdom
www.sheffield.ac.uk/snm*

The School of Nursing and Midwifery (SNM) at the University of Sheffield (UoS) is funded for five years by the Royal College of Nursing (RCN) to engage in a Strategic Research Alliance (SRA). The partnership aims to develop and conduct a new programme of research activity that links to RCN operational and strategic priorities. The alliance will deliver a programme of mutually agreed nursing research activity which will influence and evidence policy, education and patient benefit. Research topics and foci will be reviewed regularly. Activity is anticipated to comprise a mix of evidence reviews and primary research and will cluster around education and workforce issues.

This event aims to raise awareness of the SRA and promote discussion regarding research priorities. The SNM team will describe in more detail the nature of the work being undertaken. The focal point will be a discussion about UK and international nurse research priorities and how best to use the SRA to inform policy and practice. Attendees will find out about how they can get involved with the alliance, including more about our practitioner seminars and bursary opportunities.

Fringe event 4 – Room: LT3

Using evidence to inform practice: point of learning, point of reference and point of care

*Wolters Kluwer
Anne Dabrow Woods,
Chief Nursing Officer,
Wolters Kluwer Health
Inc*

Health care professionals need access to the best available evidence to provide high quality, cost-effective care that improves patient outcomes. Having an understanding of how clinicians access and use evidence in their workflow when they are learning, conducting research, or at point of care for clinical decision support, is crucial to health care organizations to ensure they are providing the right type of information when and where it is needed. This session will define the concepts of point of learning, point of reference, and point of care and will discuss the importance of having the right type of resources available for the different use cases.

At the conclusion of this session, the learner will be able to:

- define the concepts of point of learning, point of reference and point of care
- identify the importance of having the best available evidence available in a health care professional's workflow
- identify the best types of resources for point of learning, point of reference, and point of care for clinical decision support.

Networking event 1

UK Nursing Professoriate Networking event

Venue: Please meet with us at the Bacchus Bar in the Burlington Arcade, New Street, Birmingham, B2 4JH. (Opposite New Street Station.) Stay for as long or as short a time as you are able to.
www.nicholsonspubs.co.uk/restaurants/eastandwestmidlands/bacchusbarbirmingham

*Professors Alison
Twyross and Debra
Jackson, London
South Bank University,
United Kingdom*

Purpose of event: this networking event for UK-based and visiting international nursing professors will provide an opportunity for professors of different experience levels to meet and network.

Target audience: UK-based and visiting international professors of nursing (and professors who are nurses).

Expected outcome: to facilitate the development of productive and supportive (including mentor/mentee) professional relationships between experienced and less experienced nursing professors.

7pm

Networking event 2

Clinical Research Nurses Networking event

Venue: Please meet with us at the Shakespeare Pub, Summer Row, Birmingham, B3 1JJ (Close to New Street Station). Stay for as long or as short a time as you are able to.

*Dr Julie Sanders, Barts
Health NHS Trust;
Dr Rachel Taylor,
University College
London Hospitals NHS
Foundation Trust,
United Kingdom*

Purpose of event: The aim of this networking event is for clinical research nurses (CRNs), and those involved or interested in CRN development and engagement with the clinical workforce to meet, network and discuss current issues relating to this area of nursing.

Target audience: UK and international clinical research nurses (CRNs), those involved in CRN management/career development or researchers with an interest in the CRN workforce.

Expected outcomes: it is anticipated that this event will provide an opportunity to network, share experiences/best practice and identify potential future priorities for research and professional development.

Fringe event 4 – Room: LT3

Improving the impact of evidence in UK Nursing policy: is there a disconnect between academics, policy makers and nurse leaders in England?

Professor Mark Radford, NHS Improvement, UK

Health care in the UK is currently undergoing significant change with increasing demands and challenges placed upon its services. Nursing as the largest health care workforce, has a crucial role to play in developing and implementing policy to shape future models of care. The need for a strong evidence base in support of policy development has never been stronger, yet recent developments in nursing have emphasized differences in perspectives of policy makers, nursing leaders, frontline staff and nursing academics.

This session will explore the potential reason that recent challenges in UK health care have amplified the dissonance between academics, policy makers and system leaders in the construction of consensus approaches to developing nursing practice in the UK.

It will use experiences of sector experts on the issue, to determine what role academics play in policy development, how they can be utilised more effectively and through what mechanisms this can be achieved.

Through a debate style and audience participation, the panel will give an overview from their respective positions, and through dialogue and questioning identify the issues and challenges alongside potential opportunities.

Creative practices in knowledge mobilisation: making sense of knowledge mobilisation

Daniel Wolstenholme, Sheffield Hallam University and Professor Angela Tod, Sheffield University

As highlighted by the keynote presentation from Trisha Greenhalgh at last year's conference there is increasing interest in co-creation in terms of implementing change or mobilising knowledge. There still remain key challenges to making this a reality namely: the enduring issues of power, voice and trust.

In the practice of the Translating Knowledge into Action (TK2A) theme of the NIHR CLAHRC YH we have addressed these challenges through the use of creative practices. Drawing on methods and techniques drawn from participatory design and other creative media we have enabled academic and clinical staff, patients and other stakeholders to work together to coproduce new knowledge.

This fringe is an opportunity for others within the nursing profession who have used or are interested in using these sorts of methods to share their practice and learn from others.

We will have some exemplar projects to share (keeping warm in later life <http://kwillt.org> and Improving access to the Hepatitis C clinic <http://bit.ly/2DCiqTe>) but are keen to hear from others working in this creative and challenging environment.

The outcomes will be a raised profile for these approaches in knowledge mobilisation and the creation of a supportive network of researchers and practitioners in this area.

Fringe event 6 – Room: WF19

Enabling ethnography

*Dr Gary Mitchell,
Queen's University
Belfast, UK*

Ethnography is a qualitative methodology which helps the researcher generate descriptions of people in their natural environment, with a focus on routine activities and customs in that culture. In health care settings ethnography is often about researchers gathering data through methods such as observation and the questioning of participants. Ethnographers often spend large amounts of time in the field and immerse themselves in their research. Ethnographic research has the potential to produce a host of rich data. Despite its importance and long tradition in research, ethnography is a methodology which is often under-utilised in nursing and health care research.

This fringe event is aimed at nursing and health care researchers who are interested in using an ethnographic approach to answer their research questions. Delegates will learn about the origins and evolution of ethnography, the ways in which field data can be collected, practical tips about applying for ethical approval, the difference between emic/etic perspectives, the importance of the researcher and reflexivity, limitations and opposition to ethnography and illustrations of successful ethnographic studies which have been carried out in nursing and health care research.

Fringe event 7 – Room: WF15

“Become a research rock-star without behaving like one”: promoting yourself and your work honestly and unashamedly in an age of required impact and influence

*Professor Philip
Darbyshire, Consulting
Pty Ltd, Australia*

Introduction:

Researchers must promote themselves and their work in ways congruent with nursing values that avoid self-aggrandisement or shallow ‘image-management’? This fringe event will show participants specifically how ethical ‘self-promotion’ can be undertaken that is not ‘boasting’, but a professional and personal imperative. It builds on last year’s: “Never heard of you”, that focused on the research and university environment changes and their impact on the need for ‘self-promotion’. This session highlights pragmatics and specific approaches researchers can take to increase their profiles and impact in ways that are personally and professionally acceptable.

Purpose:

- give researchers the tools needed to promote and publicise their research and accomplishments
- offer researchers strategies and techniques enabling them to positively promote themselves and their work without boastful self-centredness
- show researchers the importance of today’s social media and alt-metrics in shaping vital ‘impact’ and ‘influence’ research outcomes. Help participants discover approaches to self-promotion, research publicity and impact, congruent with nursing and research values that avoid embarrassing aspects of narcissistic self-promotion.

Target audience:

All researchers, whether new or highly experienced.

Expected outcomes:

Participants will learn concrete strategies and approaches to undertaking acceptable self-promotion and the promulgation of research and scholarship.

Join Wolters Kluwer for a Fringe Event on

Using Evidence to Inform Practice: Point of Learning, Point of Reference, and Point of Care

Monday 16th April between 4.50-5.50pm

This session will define the concepts of point of learning, point of reference, and point of care and will discuss the importance of having the right type of resources available for the different use cases.

At the conclusion of this session, the learner will be able to:

1. Define the concepts of point of learning, point of reference, and point of care.
2. Identify the importance of having the best available evidence available in a healthcare professional's workflow.
3. Identify the best types of resources for point of learning, point of reference, and point of care for clinical decision support.

Presented by:

Dr. Anne Dabrow Woods, the Chief Nurse of the Health, Learning, Research and Practice division of Wolters Kluwer, a global information company that produces and publishes Lippincott journals, practice and education books, information and software products, products from the Joanna Briggs institute, Lippincott Nursing Center, Lippincott Solutions, Ovid Technologies, and UpToDate.

Dr. Dabrow Woods is also the publisher of the American Journal of Nursing and is responsible for setting the nursing and evidence-based strategy for the company. A nurse for over 34 years, and a board-certified nurse practitioner since 1998, Dr. Dabrow Woods' expertise includes implementing evidence into practice to improve workflow, and acute and primary care nursing practice.
